Source. Latin text edited by H. M. Bannister, from Missale Gothicum: a Gallican Sacramentary (MS. Vatican Reg. lat. 317), edited by H. M. Bannister, vol. I, text and introduction (London: Harrison and Sons for the Henry Bradshaw Society, vol. LII, issued for the year 1916, printed 1917); public domain. The text was read by machine (Mistral OCR) from a scan of the 1917 edition from the University of Toronto library at the Internet Archive and has not been proofread against the printed book. SermonIndex has removed running heads, page numbers, the editor's apparatus and notes, and divided the text into sections; the Latin is the editor's own. Bannister's English introduction, the table of liturgical works cited, the appendix of readings from earlier editions, the footnotes of variant readings and Bible references printed under the Latin, the manuscript's folio marks, the editor's line numbers and the plates are also left out. Some apparatus marks and mid-word page breaks of the manuscript may remain in the text, and words that the scan ran together are as the scan gave them. The manuscript breaks off with a single collect headed "Missa Cotidiana", which stands under the last Sunday Mass. No English translation is shown beside it.

Licence. The edition was published in 1917 and is in the public domain.
