

Pro-ject Life ■ Breaking The Silence ■ On Abortion

by Brent Yim

This sermon focuses on the So Project Life initiative, which aims to address the social injustice of abortion through intervention and education. It highlights the use of a short film to visually depict the sanctity of life and a website as a resource hub for pro-life ministries. The short-term goals include expanding the information database and completing the impactful short film. The long-term vision involves directing donations towards funding adoptions for Christian parents and uniting pro-life ministries nationwide to educate and advocate for life.

Scripture: Hosea 4:6, Proverbs 24:11, Psalm 127:3, Proverbs 31:8, Isaiah 1:17

Topics: "Sanctity of Life", "Advocacy for Justice"

Transcript

So Project Life was birthed out of a burden to confront the social injustice of abortion by lovingly intervening on behalf of those who are most affected by the practice of abortion. There are two tools that we're going to use in conjunction with one another to accomplish our vision. The first tool is going to be a visual tool, and the second tool is going to be a functional tool.

It's a short film that's going to artistically capture the life that begins at conception. We're going to accomplish this in three to four minutes, which allows us to quickly grab the attention of the viewers. Once the film ends, it's going to direct the viewers to our website, www.pro-jectlife.com. The functional tool, it's a website that's set up as a centralized database for God-honoring, Christ-centered pro-life ministries, whose goal is to educate and guide those who are either considering an abortion or have undergone an abortion.

For example, if an abortion-minded woman in Colorado, she sees our video, she's going to be directed to our website where she can find general information that's appropriate for her situation. Then by this time, our prayer is that we'll have birth centers that we partnered with in her area that she can contact and receive that appropriate information for her situation. Our first short-term goal is to continue to build our information database on our website.

And secondly, our goal is to complete our short film that's going to become the catalyst for our website. And this is where all the donations will be directed to at this time. So a few dollars will practically help in our battle for the sanctity of life.

Once our website and film are complete, we want to commit donations to help fund adoption for Christian parents who want to adopt, but they can't afford it. The Bible says that my people are perishing because there's a lack of knowledge. And so our desire is to educate the masses on what's happening in this realm.

Also, we desire to unite all like-minded pro-life ministries nationwide. And so my appeal to you is let's work together in our endeavor to break the silence.
