

'Twas for Me My Saviour Suffered

by H.J. Vine

Jesus' suffering and death demonstrate the depth of His love for us, procuring our liberty from sin and making it possible for us to experience the joy of heaven.

Scripture: Isaiah 53:5, Romans 5:8, Ephesians 2:8, Hebrews 4:16, Revelation 21:2

Topics: "Atonement", "Salvation"

Description

H.J. Vine preaches about the profound love of Jesus Christ, emphasizing how He willingly suffered and offered Himself on the cross to secure our freedom and salvation. The sermon highlights the unique role of Christ in meeting the judgment for our sins and the transformative power of faith that leads to repentance and joy. It also celebrates Christ's completed atoning work, His exaltation in heaven, and His eager anticipation of welcoming believers into the Father's house with great joy and grace.

Transcript

'Twas for me my Saviour suffered

On the cross of Calvary,

'Twas for me Himself He offered,

To procure my liberty.

Oh! His love for me . . .

Oh! His love for me . . .

'Twas for me my Saviour suffered,

Oh! His love for me.

None but Christ could meet the sentence

God has passed against my sins;

Deep though be the soul's repentance

E'er the joy of faith begins.

His atoning work is ended,
Now in heaven He's glorified,
To the throne of God ascended,
He awaits the Church--His Bride.
Great His joy will be to have me
In the Father's house above:
Great His grace to stoop and save me,
Son of God! how great Thy love.
