

I Salute the Families of My Brethren

by Ignatius of Antioch

Ignatius of Antioch encourages his listeners to be strong in the power of the Holy Ghost and extends greetings and salutations to various individuals and families.

Scripture: 1 Corinthians 16:13, Ephesians 3:16, Colossians 3:16, 2 Timothy 1:7, James 1:5

Topics: "Holy Spirit", "Christian Family"

Description

Ignatius of Antioch sends greetings and encouragement to the families of his brethren, including wives, children, virgins, and widows, urging them to be strong in the power of the Holy Spirit. He also extends his greetings to specific individuals like Philo, Tavius, Alce, Daphnus, and Eutecnus, praying for their faith, love, and spiritual well-being. Ignatius emphasizes the importance of being filled with the Holy Spirit, divine wisdom, and the grace of God and Jesus Christ.

Transcript

I salute the families of my brethren, with their wives and children, and those that are ever virgins, and the widows. Be ye strong, I pray, in the power of the Holy Ghost. Philo, my fellow-servant, who is with me, greets you. I salute the house of Tavius, and pray that it may be confirmed in faith and love, both corporeal and spiritual.

I salute Alce; my well-beloved, and the incomparable Daphnus, and Eutecnus, and all by name. Fare ye well in the grace of God, and of our Lord Jesus Christ, being filled with the Holy Spirit, and divine and sacred wisdom.
