

Goats Are In Churches

by Keith Malcomson

This sermon discusses the distinction between 'sheep' and 'goats' in the church, emphasizing how 'goats' are individuals who claim to live like 'sheep' but do not reflect it in their actions. The speaker highlights the tendency of 'goats' to resist and butt heads against the Word of God instead of submitting to it like 'sheep'. The analogy of 'sheep' returning when they stray versus 'goats' causing destruction for others is used to illustrate the difference in behavior.

Scripture: Matthew 25:32, John 10:27, Psalm 23:1, Ezekiel 34:12, 1 Peter 2:25

Topics: "True Discipleship", "The Nature of Faith"

Transcript

People who are called goats are people in the church who aren't living like sheep, who claim to live like sheep. They are called goats, not sinners. Jesus actually never once calls a sinner a goat.

He calls someone, and you know what goats, how you identify them, butt, butt, butt, butt. They're always butt their head up against. The Word of God says, the Bible says, oh, butt, oh, butt.

Why not just submit to it? See, a sheep goes back. Yeah, I know. You're prone to wonder, I know.

A goat goes, butt, butt, butt, butt, butt. Can't have something, he'll destroy it for everyone else. Do you know...
