

A Nation Asleep in Bondage

by K.P. Yohannan

---

Many Christians in America are distracted from their true responsibility to the Gospel by materialism, isolation, and a focus on entertainment.

Scripture: Matthew 25:35

Topics: "True Worship", "Social Responsibility"

Description

K.P. Yohannan addresses the alarming disconnect between the affluence of North American Christianity and the dire needs of the impoverished both locally and globally. He critiques the commercialization of religion, where churches focus on entertainment and luxury rather than genuine worship and outreach. Yohannan highlights the irony of Christians engaging in numerous spiritual activities while neglecting their responsibility to spread the Gospel to those in desperate need. He calls for a wake-up among believers to recognize the plight of the poor and to act with compassion and urgency. The sermon serves as a powerful reminder of the call to live out the Gospel in tangible ways.

Transcript

Religion, I discovered, is a multi-billion dollar business in the United States. Entering churches, I was astonished at the carpeting, furnishings, air-conditioning and ornamentation. Many churches have gymnasiums and fellowships that cater to a busy schedule of activities having little or nothing to do with Christ. The orchestras, choirs, "special" music--and sometimes even the preaching--seemed to me more like entertainment than worship.

Many North American Christians live isolated from reality--not only from the needs of the poor overseas, but even from the poor in their own cities. Amidst all the affluence live millions of terribly poor people left behind as Christians have moved into the suburbs. I found that believers are ready to get involved in almost any activity that looks spiritual but allows them to escape their responsibility to the Gospel.

One morning, for example, I picked up a popular Christian magazine containing many interesting articles, stories and reports from all over the world--most written by famous Christian leaders in the West. I noticed that this magazine offered ads for 21 Christian colleges, seminaries and correspondence courses; 5 different English translations of the Bible; 7 conferences and retreats; 5 new Christian films; 19 commentaries and devotional books; 7 Christian health or diet programs; and 5 fund-raising services.

But that was not all. There were ads for all kinds of products and services: counseling, chaplaincy services, writing courses, church steeples, choir robes, wall crosses, baptisteries and water heaters, T-shirts, records, tapes, adoption agencies, tracts, poems, gifts, book clubs and pen pals. It was all rather impressive. Probably none of these things were wrong in themselves, but it bothered me that one nation should have such spiritual luxury while 40,000 people were dying in my homeland every day without hearing the Gospel even once.
