

I Walked in a Daze

by K.P. Yohannan

K.P. Yohannan's sermon reflects on the stark contrast between American affluence and global poverty, urging compassion and responsibility among listeners.

Scripture: Proverbs 14:31, Isaiah 58:10, Matthew 6:19-21, Matthew 25:40, Luke 12:48, 2 Corinthians 9:7, Galatians 6:2, Philippians 4:19, James 1:17, 1 John 3:17

Topics: "Wealth and Responsibility", "Global Poverty Awareness"

Description

K.P. Yohannan reflects on his experiences in the United States, contrasting the affluence and material wealth he observed with the stark realities faced by national missionary evangelists in poorer regions. He emphasizes how Americans often take their abundance for granted, while many in the Two-Thirds World live with minimal possessions and struggle for basic needs. Through vivid comparisons, he challenges listeners to recognize the disparity in lifestyles and to appreciate the blessings they have, urging a deeper awareness of global poverty and a call to action.

Transcript

As I changed planes for Dallas at JFK International in New York, I was overcome at the sights and sounds around me. Those of us who grow up in Europe and Asia hear stories about the affluence and prosperity of the United States, but until you see it with your own eyes, the stories seem like fairy tales.

Americans are more than just unaware of their affluence--they almost seem to despise it at times. Finding a lounge chair, I stared in amazement at how they treated their beautiful clothes and shoes. The richness of the fabrics and colors was beyond anything I had ever seen. As I would discover again and again, this nation routinely takes its astonishing wealth for granted.

As I would do many times--almost daily--in the weeks ahead, I compared their clothing to that of the national missionary evangelists whom I had left only a few weeks before. Many of them walk barefoot between villages or work in flimsy sandals. Their threadbare cotton garments would not be acceptable as cleaning rags in the United States. Then I discovered most Americans have closets full of clothing they wear only occasionally--and I remembered the years I traveled and worked with only the clothes on my back. And I had lived the normal lifestyle of most village evangelists.

Economist Robert Heilbroner describes the luxuries a typical American family would have to surrender if they lived among the 1 billion hungry people in the Two-Thirds World:

We begin by invading the house of our imaginary American family to strip it of its furniture. Everything goes: beds, chairs, tables, television sets, lamps. We will leave the family with a few old blankets, a kitchen table, a wooden chair. Along with the bureaus go the clothes. Each member of the family may keep in his wardrobe his oldest suit or dress, a shirt or blouse. We will permit a pair of shoes for the head of the family, but none for the wife or children.

Source: <https://sermonindex.net/speakers/kp-yohannan/i-walked-in-a-daze/>

Grow in Your Walk with Christ

Listen and read messages that will stir your heart for Christ and point you to deeper repentance and devotion.

- 50,000+ Sermons from speakers past and present
- 3,900+ Classic Christian Books freely readable online
- 1,200+ Bible Translations and Commentaries
- Over 450k forum posts — Join our vibrant online Christian forum

www.sermonindex.net