

A Tender Heart, a Soft Hand, an Iron Memory

by Thomas Brooks

Consider your life as a time of reaping, where your actions and decisions will be rewarded or punished in the end.

Scripture: Matthew 10:42, 2 Corinthians 5:10, Galatians 6:9, Hebrews 6:10, Revelation 22:12

Topics: "Eternal Rewards", "Faithfulness in Service"

Description

Thomas Brooks emphasizes the significance of viewing our dying day as a time of reaping the rewards of our prayers, tears, good words, and deeds. He assures that all our struggles and sacrifices will yield a glorious harvest in eternity, as Christ, with His tender heart and soft hand, remembers every sorrow and service. The sermon highlights the certainty of divine reward, reminding believers that their efforts are not in vain and that Christ will return to give each according to their works.

Transcript

Look upon your dying day as your reaping day.

Now you shall reap the fruit of . . .

all the prayers that ever you have made, and of all the tears that ever you have shed, and of all the sighs and groans that ever you have fetched, and of all the good words that ever you have spoken, and of all the good works that ever you have done, and of all the great things that ever you have suffered.

When mortality shall put on immortality, you shall then reap a plentiful crop, a glorious crop, as the fruit of that good seed, which for a time, has seemed to be buried and lost.

As Christ has a tender heart and a soft hand, so He has an iron memory. He precisely remembers . . . all the sorrows, and all the services, and all the sufferings of His people, to reward them and crown them.

"Behold, I am coming soon! My reward is with Me, and I will give to everyone according to what he has done." Revelation 22:12
