

The Cowardice of the Minister

by Thomas Brooks

Ministerial cowardice is a form of cruelty that leads to the murder of souls, as ministers who fear men's faces fail to proclaim the whole will of God.

Scripture: Acts 20:26

Topics: "Accountability", "Courage in Ministry"

Description

Thomas Brooks emphasizes the grave responsibility of ministers to boldly proclaim the whole will of God without fear of man. He warns that cowardice in ministry equates to cruelty, as it endangers the souls of those they are called to serve. By hesitating to share the truth, ministers become complicit in the spiritual death of their congregations. Brooks calls for courage and integrity in delivering God's message, urging ministers to be accountable for their actions.

Transcript

"Therefore, I declare to you today that I am innocent of the blood of all men. For I have not hesitated to proclaim to you the whole will of God." Acts 20:26-27

The cowardice of the minister is cruelty; if he fears the faces of men, he is a murderer of the souls of men.
