

Gods Insulted Glory Demanded That Gods Wrath Fall On Our Heads (Clip)

by Tim Conway

This sermon emphasizes the profound sacrifice of Jesus on the cross, highlighting how God's wrath was satisfied through Christ's resurrection, signifying the payment for our sins. It delves into the concept of God's broken law and insulted glory demanding justice, which Christ fulfilled by taking on the wrath meant for us. The sermon also addresses the urgency of finding refuge in God as the only hiding place from His impending wrath, contrasting human attempts at self-righteousness or religious practices as inadequate.

Duration: 0:58

Scripture: Romans 3:25, 1 Peter 2:24, John 14:6, Psalm 32:7

Topics: "Sacrifice of Christ", "Refuge in God"

Transcript

My God, my God, why have you forsaken me? But you realize he didn't stay dead. He's not on some crucifix on a wall. He came out of that grave and that grave says God is satisfied and our sins are paid.

God's broken law demanded. God's insulted glory demanded that the wrath of God fall on our heads. And here it was coming and Christ stepped in our way.

You know who will enter that narrow way? We sang about it, a hiding place. I can see some of you out there, you have no hiding place and the wrath of God is coming. You've tried to hide in your own goodness, you've tried to hide in religion, you've tried to hide in different things, but you have no hiding place and the wrath of God is coming.

And God offered that hiding place. He offered one.
